Admiral Goodrich is expected to arrive on his flagship to-night of early to-morrow, when an official investigation of the disaster will be begun. Much interest centers on the question of what was the steam pressure on boller "B" at the time of the explosion, it being said that the safety valve had been set to blow off at 140 pounds. Ten minutes before the explosion the pressure was only 118 pounds, and was rising, it is said. The boller had been cleaned only a short time before the explosion, and filled with fresh water from ashore.

The people are convinced that the infection was brought here by the fruit steamers and if it became necessary to make regulations so stringent as to drive them away in the present feeling, such regulations would be enforced.

While handling the present emergency some thought is being given to the future, and on all sides there is a sentiment that nothing shall stand in the way of future immunity from mosquito fever, as it is called now. The object of this, it is now explained in an authorative quarters, is because Japan wishes to be assured that Russias is prepared to negotiate in seriousness for peace before the Japanese commanders yield any of their ground in the field or give the Russians time to increase the forces at the front.

Military officials here attach importance to the episode only in connection with the Sakhalin campaign, and say that as the landing was effected at a place where the Straits of Tartary, between Sakhalin and the mainland, are narrowest, it apparently is part of the strategy of the Japanese to prevent the escape of the Russian garrison in Sakhalin across the straits. ODESSA, July 26.—The Governor of Odessa has issued an extraordinary proclamation, which, when posted in the city to-morrow, may have the effect of increasing the already bitter feeling against the Jews among the troops and more ignorant classes of the population. The Governor says he has received a number of anonymous letters donouncing persons as socialists and revoluing persons as socialists and revolu-tionaries, which he entirely ignores, be-lieving in most cases these communica-tions were inspired by motives of per-tions were inspired by motives of personal vengeance. The proclamation continues: "Letters have also come from the Jews, charging the police with preparing for a Jewish massacre."

The Governor them declares that such action is impossible, and will not be permitted, but he adds: "The Governor is astonished at the Jews addressing such letters to him, seeing that it is the Jews themselves, who caused all the disorders. The police invariably found revolvers, bombs and prohibited literature in Jewish houses. But for the Jews there would have been no disturbances and no Knitz Potenkine affair. Now the Jews have the impertinence to bring charges against the police."

Governor LaFollette was very tired and very angry. The cause for his sanguinary desire was his experience on the Illinois Central train coming to Galesburg. He denounced the treatment accorded to all the passengers, but especially the women and children. He himself had traveled two nights without sleep. He said: "Monday night I practically had no sleep. At ninoteen minutes of 3 o'clock yesterday morning, after being on the road several hours, I took an Illinois Central train at Ashley. The train comprised two passenger cars and a smoker. There had been an excursion and the road had evidently made no provision for it. The cars were in a terribly crowded condition. I was forced to stand up for the next two hours. That was not the worst of it. I saw women with children on the train 50 exhausted that they could stand no longer. women with children on the train so ex-hausted that they could stand no longer and they seated themselves on the floor of the car."
